Course Description
This course examines the political and administrative processes at play in the management, use, and protection of the environment, involving different stakeholders from local to global levels, and through policy and governance in multiple forms. Relevant laws, policy tools, and institutions are examined, with a focus in the first half of the class on US policymaking, and in the second half of the class on global policymaking.

Course Objectives
At the end of the course, students will understand the history of environmental and sustainability policy, and will have learned to think analytically about policy-making. Students are expected not only to become more familiar with policy development in the US and globally as a multi-dimensional process but also to develop independent and critical thinking on the tradeoffs involved in environmental policy-making at all levels. Students will see how real world sustainability issues work by paying particular attention to energy and climate change issues and policy of current importance (e.g. natural gas drilling, the Gulf Oil spill, the Senate climate change bill, etc).

To meet these goals, the course focuses on three primary activities: (1) core readings, lectures and discussion on aspects of environmental policy; (2) periodic individual and shared written assignments on substantive issues; and (3) real world examples through films and guest lectures that highlight the issues involved in environmental policy-making.
Course Requirements
Pre-requisites: You must have completed SOS 110, and SOS 111 (or PUP 190), with a grade of C or better. There are no exceptions. Please see the SOS advisor if you are unclear on pre-requisites.

Required Reading
There are two required texts for the course, available at the ASU bookstore and other online bookstores. Please ensure you get the right edition. The texts are:

I also suggest that to get the most out of this class, you become regular readers of at least one or more environmental policy-oriented blogs that consolidates and comments on current news in this field. Many of these sites allow you to subscribe via email or RSS feed to get updates as they happen. Some suggestions include:

Requirements & Grading
There will be a fairly intense amount of reading spread throughout the semester. Please budget your time for homework that you can devote the necessary time to staying up to date with the readings. Students are expected to do all of the required readings for the assigned dates and to be prepared to discuss them in class. I will give 10 reading quizzes throughout the semester to ensure that you are preparing for class.

Assignments and their points are listed in the table below. Dates and details will be finalized throughout the course. Please discuss with the instructor or TAs if any assignment or due date is unclear.

Grades
There are 100 points that are possible to achieve in the work in this class. I will grade according to the following scale. (According to university policy, C- and D+ are not available.) Cutoffs are firm, especially the use of pluses and minuses.

Grading Scale
A 90 - 100

Written Assignments:
Written assignments are to be turned in on Blackboard in the designated slot. This means assignments are NOT to be emailed to the instructor, or given to me in class, or dropped off at my mailbox, etc. Any assignment not turned in to Blackboard begins to be considered late immediately following the time in which it was due. Late assignments will be penalized 5 points per day late; there are no exceptions.

Written assignments must meet the following requirements
1. The paper must be typed in 12 point font and be spaced no more than 1.5 spaces.
2. The paper must be in standard APA bibliographic format.
3. The paper must be in Microsoft Word document form (.doc).
4. The file name of the document you upload must be in the form of: YourlastnameSOS321(Name ofspeakerorFilm)Review.doc and YourlastnameSOS321PolicyBrief.doc.
5. Papers should be proofed carefully, and please pay attention to readability and writing style, as well as to content.

-- Speaker or Film Review: We will have up to three guest speakers throughout the semester, and two films. You will choose one speaker's talk or one film to review in a written paper, summarizing the main points and key concepts learned (but you may not choose a film or speaker on the day in which you were in charge of the class notes Wiki page below, so as to prevent double dipping on assignments). It should be around 5 pages and due no later than one week after the class session in which the speaker/film you chose spoke/ was shown. The paper should, at a minimum, discuss the key points the speaker/film made and the issues that emerged, provide a meaningful commentary on issues raised by the talk/film, and provide an analysis of the context and content of the speaker/film’s messages, particularly with regard to the themes of the class and textbook readings, such as the link between theories of environmental policy as discussed in readings and “real-world practice” that emerged in the talks/films.

-- Policy Brief. You will write a 5 page (minimum) policy brief on an environmental policy (either US, international, or global) of your choice. Your policy brief will provide a brief but complete history of the selected policy, a timeline and description of how the policy was placed on the agenda, who was involved in it (stakeholders and interest groups), what policy alternatives were considered, what compromises were made, how the policy was implemented and in what form (i.e. tax, regulatory, budgetary, etc), how the policy is enforced and by whom, and provide an evaluation of the outcomes, paying attention to what metrics are used to evaluate this policy (i.e. cost-benefit analysis, etc). The policy brief is due Nov 16 by 5pm on the appropriate submission site on Blackboard. The brief will be discussed further in class.

-- Class notes Wiki page. You will be asked to write a collaborative wiki page among up to 5 students for one class session which summarizes and analyzes that class’s work and readings. Dates will be chosen the first week of class. The wiki page is located at http://sos321.wikispaces.asu.edu Further instructions on the content of the class notes is located on the wiki site. Your group must have a final wiki page in place no later than 48 hours after the class you are assigned.

Exams
There will be 10 reading quizzes to ensure you are keeping up with the readings, and a final. The reading quizzes will be announced one week in advance and posted on Blackboard, where they are to be taken BEFORE coming to that day’s class. Content and format of the final will be discussed in class.

Blackboard Information
This course will have a Blackboard site. The site will contain the syllabus, and I will post on the website announcements, class notes and PowerPoint presentations, and some assigned readings. The website is only a supplemental aid, and not a replacement for attending class.

Attendance and Make-ups
Attendance and participation are an important part of making the class work. Excessive absences will detract from your grade. Attendance will be taken at each class. If you cannot attend a class it is YOUR responsibility to obtain notes, syllabi changes, assignments etc. from another student and/or Blackboard and our wiki page. If you know you will have to miss class in advance because of something beyond your control (NOT, for example, a routine appointment), let one of the TA’s know (with relevant documentation) in advance. Make-up after the fact is available only for a documented emergency (doctor’s note and/or dean’s excuse). Students who will miss class due to an athletic competition or other official university events are required to follow official ASU policies if they wish to make up an assignment. You must notify a TA immediately in this circumstance, and at that time we can make arrangements for turning in missed work. Those who fail to do so will not be accommodated.
Withdrawals and Incompletes

Please see me if you feel you will need to withdraw from the class. You will need to follow ASU rules on dates for withdrawal. I will not give incompletes for this course, except for extreme and ongoing situations such as family problems or illnesses that you or an immediate family member suffer that would make it impossible for you to come to class. Documentation is required. For more information, please see: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/usi/usi203-09.html

Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty is not tolerated in any shape or form. If you are unclear on what constitutes dishonesty, please see http://provost.asu.edu/academicintegrity/policy/StudentObligations. Dishonesty includes any forms of plagiarism, cheating on tests, turning in the same work for more than one class, passing off another’s work as your own, and other things. I have a zero tolerance policy on academic dishonesty: An initial incident will result in the student receiving no credit for the assignment. A second incident will result in a failure in the class, and a grade of XE is an option for cases in which I feel there has been serious misconduct. It is your responsibility to be aware of what plagiarism is, and not to do it in any shape or form. There may be additional university consequences, including expulsion.

Other Policies

Please note the following.

1. There is no extra credit work.

2. The classroom is a place of mutual respect. Everyone is expected to treat each other and his/her questions and comments with civility. Cell phones must be off or on silent. Please, no text messaging, surfing websites, reading outside material, and the like during class. If you are using a computer during class I reserve the right to ensure you are using it for class purposes.

3. Announcements and instructions throughout the course (in class and on Blackboard) will amplify, supplement, and possibly change the syllabus. The student is responsible for keeping up-to-date on these announcements and for understanding any changes.

4. Email is a medium that should be used carefully. I do not answer emails immediately and especially not on nights and weekends, so be aware that emailing me the night before an assignment is due is not acceptable. Please plan ahead and try to make use of my office hours, not email, for more complicated or in-depth discussions. Questions regarding attendance and assignments should be directed at the TAs first.

5. Qualified students with disabilities who will require disability accommodations in this class are encouraged to make their requests to the instructor at the beginning of the semester. NOTE: Prior to receiving disability accommodations, verification of eligibility from the Disability Resource Center (DRC) is required. Disability information is confidential. Students who feel they will need disability accommodations in this class but have not registered with the Disability Resource Center (DRC) should contact DRC immediately. Their office is located on the first floor of the Matthews Center Building. DRC staff can also be reached at (480) 965-1234 (V) or 480-965-9000 (TTY). For additional information visit: www.asu.edu/studentaffairs/ed/drc. Their hours are 8:00am to 5:00 pm., Monday through Friday.
